

What is claimed is:

1. A method for converting spoiled organic vegetable waste and the boxes or crates in which such organic vegetable matter is normally packaged or shipped comprising of the steps of:

shredding the boxes or crates to define a shredded packaging waste, storing said packaging waste until needed,

shredding the organic vegetable waste, mixing said previously shredded packaging waste with said shredded organic waste to form a mixture of shredded organic vegetable waste and packaging waste having a predetermined ratio, placing said mixture of organic vegetable waste and packaging waste into a decomposition chamber to decompose into reusable compost, circulating aerating air through said mixture within said decomposition chamber to facilitate the composting process, and removing said resulting compost from said decomposition chamber.

2. The method as defined in Claim 1 and including the step of mixing an amount of said shredded packaging waste to an amount of said shredded organic waste in equal parts by weight to form a mixture having substantially a 1-to-1 ratio.

3. The method as defined in Claim 1 and including the step of:

transporting said resulting compost to a secondary decomposition chamber for either storage or further decomposition.

4. A method for converting spoiled organic vegetable waste and the boxes and crates in which such organic vegetable matter is initially packaged or shipped comprising the step of:

shredding the boxes and crates to define shredded packaging waste, conveying said shredded packaging waste to a receiving and holding chamber,

shredding the organic vegetable waste, mixing said previously shredded packaging waste with said shredded organic waste to form a homogenous mixture of said shredded organic waste and packaging waste, conveying said homogenous mixture of shredded organic waste and packaging waste to a decomposition chamber to decompose into reusable compost, circulating aerating air through said mixture within said decomposition chamber, and recirculating said aerating air through said decomposition chamber, and mixing fresh incoming air with said recirculating aerating air.

5. The method as defined in Claim 4 and including the step of mixing said mixture of shredded organic waste and packaging waste to form a blend having equal parts of said shredded organic waste and packaging waste.

6. The method as defined in Claim 4 and including the step of draining any moisture accumulating in the decomposition chamber.

7. The method as defined in Claim 4 and including the step of conveying the decomposed waste mixture in said decomposition chamber to a second decomposition chamber for further composting.

8. The method as defined in Claim 4 and including the step of exhausting a portion of said fresh air and recirculating filtering said portion of said fresh air and recirculating aerating air exhausted to atmosphere.
